

Abstract

The present invention provides a method of transporting chimeric hybrid molecules across the blood brain barrier by using an opioid moiety of chemically modified morphine (3) that binds to and 5 activates the human mu (μ) opioid receptor, with the opioid moiety linked through a novel linker-hinge (4) to the other moiety.

10

15

20